

References

1. F.W. Taylor quoted in Richard T. Pascale, Managing on the Edge, New York: Viking Penguin Inc., 1990 p.27.
2. Ibid.
3. Nigel Campbell, "How Japanese Multinationals Work So Well," Prism, Fourth Quarter, 1991 pp. 61-62.
4. Peter F. Drucker, "The Coming of the New Organization," HBR, Jan.-Feb. 1988 pp. 45-53.
5. Peter F. Drucker, Managing for the Future, New York: Truman Talley, 1992.
6. See, for example, Mark Brown, Left Handed - Right Handed, David & Charles 1980; Tony Buzan, Use Both Sides of Your Brain, E.P. Dutton, 1980; Berty Edwards, Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain, Fontana, 1982; Aldous Huxley, The Art of Seeing, Prentice-Hall, 1975; and Robert Ornstein, The Psychology of Consciousness, Freeman , 1972.
7. Weston H. Agor, Intuitive Management, Prentice-Hall, 1984.
8. See in particular "The Self in Cross-Cultural Perspective" by Francis L.K. Hsu, and "The Self in Hindu Thought and Action" by Agehananda Bharati in Culture and Self, edited by Anthony J. Marsella, George Devos and Francis Hsu, Tavistock Pub., 1985; and Tony Buzan, Make the Most of Your Mind, Pan Books, 1977.